DEER SEASON AT HAND.

Friday Morning Will Find Many Hunters on the Ground.

The open season for killing deer commences in the state of Wisconsin on Friday, November 11th, and continues until the end of the 30th day of November. Grand Rapids always furnishes its quota of enthusiastic deer hunters and the present season promises to be no exception from those that have gone before.

There are innumerable haunts of the fleet-footed animal in the north. Hunters have their choice and the majority of them have already selected their place to visit during the open season. Game wardens are supposed to be in the woods to see that the deer are protected from the lawbreakers and pot hunters and on the morning of November eleventh the hunters can point their rifles toward the hunting grounds without fear of arrest. Every man who ever visits the northern country during the deer season is as careful as he can possibly be but there are invariably many accidents and it is expected that the number this all will not fall short of last year.

What the Law Says.

Following is the section of the game laws which relate to the hunting of deer.

Any person who shall take, pursue or kill by any device or contrivance whatever, or pursue with the intent to take, kill or worry any deer, buck, doe or fawn between the thirtieth day of November and the succeeding tenth day of November all the year excepting the last 20 days in Nov. being thereby intended to be included in the closed or prohibited season for such animals, or who shall hunt deer, buck, doe or fawn, at any time with dogs or in the night time or in either the counties of Sauk, Adams, Columbia, Richland and Marquette at any other time than during the last ten days of November of each year, or in the counties of Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Manitowish and Calumet, at any time or in the counties of La Crosse, Monroe, Vernon, Trempealeau and Jackson until the open season for deer in fifteen hundred and seven or who shall kill, capture any deer, buck, doe or fawn, or attempt to kill or capture such, in the waters or on the ice of any of the streams, lakes or ponds, within the jurisdiction of the state at any time, or who shall take, catch or kill any deer, buck, doe or fawn, by means of any pit, pitfall or trap at any time; or who shall make use of artificial light in hunting deer or have in his possession the skin of a deer when it is in its red coat or any fawn when it is in its spotted coat; or who shall kill more than two deer in any one year, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than two months or more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Only Two Deer Each.

The hunting license which every hunter must obtain is supplied with two tags which are used in transporting the deer and without them it is unlawful to ship the game after it is killed. The law says that any person killing a deer may keep and consume the same in his family if he files a notice to that effect with the game warden or deputy game warden on or before the last day of the open season.

Section Number eighty-five of the game laws reads as follows: It shall be unlawful and it is prohibited to buy, sell or transport any grouse, green head, carcase or a part of carcase of any buck, deer, doe or fawn between the third day of December and the succeeding twelfth day of November.

Mules and Watches.

It may be a surprise to some people to learn that there are as many mules in Wood county as there are watches, but such is a fact, nevertheless. Just nineteen of each, as can be seen by consulting the records in the office of the county clerk.

Assessment Matters.

For several weeks past Supervisor of Assessments Cochran has been at work on a set of tables which will be submitted to the county board at its fall meeting. Complete and careful perusal of them will show just about how things stand throughout the county.

Table No. 9 gives the assessed value of all real estate in the county as $10,558,422, while the supervisor of assessments estimates it to be worth $13,500,031. The assessed value of Grand Rapids is $2,014,080, while the true value as estimated is $2,491,992. The true value at Marshfield is given as $2,493,363, and the assessed valuation as $2,216,605, a very little difference between the two cities in actual value but considerably different in assessed value.

In making the estimates of value in the different parts of the county the supervisor of assessment has visited the various parts of the county and viewed the tracts of land himself, beside looking up the sales in the town and comparing the estimates with the price that the land or similar parcels of land sold for. These tables as prepared by the supervisor will be submitted to the county board, and these gentlemen, if they feel so disposed, may base their valuations thereon.

Lumbermen Scarce.

Reports from the north are to the effect that men for logging camps are scarce this year, and the indications are that there will not be enough to fill the demand. There was a time when nearly every man who came to Wisconsin was a lumber jack of some kind. In those days the wages were low, the grub was questionable and the sleeping facilities were such as to make the flesh of the ordinary man feel queer. The conditions have so materially improved since those times that there is no comparison. Wages are better, the food is beyond reproach, and cleanliness in most instances is far ahead of goldilocks, and yet men are more scarce each year, notwithstanding that the lumbering industry has greatly diminished in this section.

Thelma.

The announcement that a dramatization of Marie Correll's great novel of "Thelma" will be presented at the opera house will prove a pleasant surprise of the many admirers of Correll's master piece. Critics are unanimous in their belief that "Thelma" is the only one of this popular writer's novels whose construction will admit of a dramatization sufficiently lucid to prove interesting when placed before an audience in its entirety. Managers Spedden and Vancoc have for this season's production of "Thelma" selected a cast of unusual excellence, including Miss Claire Pidge, a well known western actress, as "Thelma," her fourth season with this company. On Friday, November 11th, in this city.

A Good Lecture.

Father Moran lectured at the opera house Wednesday night, his subject being "Success." His talk was a good one and was listened to by a large audience who paid very close attention to the speaker. The next entertainment of the course will be the colored jubilee singers, who will be here November 10th.

Defeated at Stevens Point.

The city football team went to Stevens Point on Sunday and played a game with the team over there, and the score was 4 to 0 in favor of the Stevens Pointers. The score was made by a drop kick from the field, and had it not been for this lucky play the score would probably have been a tie.

WAS LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

Old Soldier Steals Merchandise to Find Lodging.

James Castello, a veteran of the Civil war, and 60 years of age, was taken before Judge Cooper on Friday on a charge of petit larceny and given five days in the county jail in order to allow him to sober up and come to his senses.

The case is a peculiar one. Castello arrived in the city on Wednesday and going to Officer Garthie on the east side asked him to lock him up for thirty days. Said he was an old soldier and wished to find a temporary place of abode. Mr. Garthie sent him to Chief Gibson, when the old fellow explained that he had been an inmate of the soldiers' home at Waupaca, but that he had been suspended for six months for having taken whiskey into the institution. He had apparently been drinking considerable and Mr. Gibson thought it would be as well to lock him up for the night and allow him to sober up. He had told the officer that if he was not locked up that he would steal something and thus get into jail, so he was started toward the lockup.

About this time some other duty called Mr. Gibson's attention and he asked his prisoner to wait a few minutes on the corner when he would return and take him to jail. This he promised to do, but when Mr. Gibson returned the prisoner had disappeared. It seems that Castello went down the street and stole two pairs of rubber boots and a pair of shoes from in front of Brubaker's shoe store, after which he went to the market square, where he offered to sell the whole outfit to a farmer for 25 cents. The farmer agreed to the bargain and said he would go up town and get the money. He did not return at once, however, and Castello came up town again, leaving the footwear on the farmer's wagon.

He then went to Johnson & Hill's store where he took a lap robe from in front of the store and started down the street. He made several futile efforts to sell the robe for a quarter, and the police were now warm on his trail and they traced him to the Dew Drop Inn, where Castello was found in a very much intoxicated condition, but nobody knew anything about the stolen robe.

Castello was locked up and next morning after sobering up he made a statement to the effect that he had sold the robe to a man in the saloon for 25 cents and a drink of whiskey. Albert Tahmami was taxed with having bought the robe, and though he at first denied the charge, later on the robe was forthcoming. Chief Gibson deserves considerable credit in having run this matter down, and he is of the opinion that he will yet recover the shoes from the farmer who agreed to buy them.

Man Injured at Junction City.

Marshfield News.—Tom Pefeski was brought here last Sunday from Junction City and placed in St. Joseph's hospital a wreck of his former self. The night previous he had been at the Junction and it is claimed when last seen was badly under the influence of liquor. He lived by himself in a little shanty two miles up the track from the station. After leaving the place nothing further was heard of him until the next morning when he was found by the section men lying by the side of the track with one foot cut off, the other badly injured and his face and hands bleeding and cut. It is supposed that he fell asleep on the track, and was struck by the midnight train. He was conscious when found but very weak from loss of blood. His attending physician believes he will recover.

A Quiet Day.

Election day was a quiet one in this city. Outside of the few knots of politicians and others who occupied the street corners, there was little doing anywhere. In many places business was almost at a standstill. There were very few country people in town, indicating that they were either at home attending to their own business or else that they found enough to interest them in their immediate neighborhood. As the vote polled was large, it was evident that they were attending to this part of their business, anyway.

Death of Charley Otto.

Charles, the six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Otto, died on Tuesday of last week after a short illness. Mr. Otto was away from home when the child was taken sick, and arrived only a short time before the little fellow died. This is the second child that Mr. and Mrs. Otto have lost, and they have the sincere sympathy of all their neighbors and friends in their sad loss. The funeral occurred on Thursday, the remains being interred in the cemetery in this city.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the sweetened mixture gives it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect." Otto's Pharmacy.

Sewing in the Public Schools.

Those who have been interested in the introduction of Manual Training in the city schools will be interested in knowing that sewing has now been added from grades three to eight inclusive. The work in sewing occupies one hour a week. In grades three and four both boys and girls take the work in sewing. In grades five and six the girls have the work in sewing while the boys in these grades have bench work in wood and drawing in the Manual Training Department at the Lincoln Building.

Schools offering work in Manual Training, receive the state aid amounting to $200 per annum. This aid is given the first year on the introduction of bench work in wood. It is not continued unless the work in Manual Training is extended. The aid received this year will be used in introducing sewing, and also Ventnor or Bent Iron work.

The study of the rise of primitive races shows that house or household industries were important factors in the development of the people. Spinning, weaving, basketry, sewing, garment making and the designing of planning for all these were common tasks. These factors assisted in developing the people mentally, gave them ideas of beauty and ministered to their daily comforts.

This was shown very clearly in the early period of our country's history. As these industries furnish a large part of the world's work their use in education should be increased.

Sewing belongs to the everyday experience of the child and represents one of the most common and useful activities of life. A knowledge of needlework gains independence for the worker, makes her practical, creates a sympathy for all workers and respect for all honest handwork. The object of all construction is to strengthen the mind and form character. Needlework and all forms of manual work are made conducive to this end.

With this object in view sewing has been placed in the public schools. The work is correlated with geography, history and science, for example, in teaching the first lesson on cotton cloth, the children are told about the cotton plant, the history of its production, when first cultivated, its geographical distribution, how and where it is woven into cloth, invention of the cotton gin, etc. Each new fabric is treated in a similar manner.

The elementary stitches are taught and then applied to useful and practical articles. Various forms of darning, mending and patching are taught. Drafting and cutting of under and outer garments form a part of the work in the upper grades. Samples of the various stitches are mounted in books and descriptions and uses of the different stitches are written out for future reference.

A thorough and practical course of hand sewing is required before pupils take up garment drafting, cutting and machine work. The latter phase of the work comes in eighth grade and high school. The Central Laboratory has been equipped with sewing tables for eighth grade sewing. The school authorities expect to add sewing machines and drafting tables so that we will have a well equipped dressmaking department before the close of the year. This will doubtless result in our being able to show creditable results.

During the past few years it has come to be recognized that many of those things which are of practical value in life have also great educational value. Manual training as well as sewing train hand and eye in accuracy. Sewing in the school room helps to bring school work in touch with life and prepares the pupil for these every day duties of life which every one must meet.

May Locate Here.

James Boffet, the inventor of the patent drill sharpener which was used at the Consolidated works during the time they were excavating, was in the city again the latter part of last week. Mr. Boffet is looking about for a location for a factory where he can manufacture his drill sharpener and is rather taken with Grand Rapids. He states that he has been north where he has exhibited his machine, and the work it will do and that there is plenty of chance to sell the machines as soon as he can place them on the market, as those who have seen them pronounce them a good thing. The machines would be sold for about a thousand dollars apiece.

Death of Iva Akoy.

Miss Iva Akoy died on Thursday of last week at the home of her mother on the west side, after an illness extending over a year, the cause of death being consumption. Miss Akoy was one of our bright young ladies and was a member of the graduating class of the high school when she was taken sick last year, and though everything possible was done for her, it was impossible to save her life. She was 19 years of age last May. The funeral was held on Saturday from the Catholic church, Rev. B. Hugenroth conducting the funeral services. Her mother and other relatives have the sympathy of the community in their affliction.

The Best Liniment.

"Chamberlain's Pain Balm is considered the best liniment on the market," wrote Post & Ellis, of Georgia, Va. No other liniment will heal a cut or bruise so promptly. No other affords such quick relief from rheumatic pains. No other is so valuable for deep seated pains like lame back and pains in the chest. Give this liniment a trial and you will never wish to be without it. Otto's Pharmacy.

EVERYTHING REPUBLICAN.

Even Wood County Rolls up a Majority for Boh.

Once more it becomes the painful duty of the Tribune to announce that the nation, state and county have gone republican. If there has been a democratic elected outside of the state of Texas he has failed to telegraph the fact to this paper up to the present time. No doubt there were some democrats elected in this state, but it would take a mighty long range rifle to reach any of them from Grand Rapids.

So far as can be told at the present time, Roosevelt is elected president of the United States by a larger vote than McKinley received four years ago. In the state LaFollette is elected by forty thousand plurality and in Wood county the republican candidates have been elected by majorities ranging from two hundred and fifty to five hundred.

With very few exceptions in the county, LaFollette ran behind the head of the ticket considerably, but not enough to change the result to any extent. In a very few places, however, LaFollette ran ahead of Roosevelt.

The only Democratic congressman elected in the state is Watson of Sheboygan Falls. Watson succeeded him self in congress.

The latest reports received here are to the effect that LaFollette carried the state by from 25 to 30 thousand, conservative estimates give him a larger plurality than this, however.

Roosevelt carried the state by over 100,000, and congress has gained several republican members.

Blind Students Protest.

Students at the State Institute for the Blind at Janesville have filed two strong protests with the state board of control against the quality and quantity of food furnished them. Among other things they say they are not getting enough and that the food they do get is not good and is improperly prepared. Accompanying their protest was a bill of fare for one week in September. The following for one day is a fair sample of the week: Breakfast, malted milk, first potatoes, coffee, lunch, soup, tea, potatoes, supper, butter, potatoes, one pound bacon, raw onions, water. The protest is signed by twenty-four students.

JOHN BURT

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS

Author of "The Kidnapped Millionaire," "Colonel Monroe's Doctrine," Etc.

At the close of the day, and of the dull gloom of the night, a wonderful transformation took place in John Hawkins. He gazed at the ore with the rapt look of an enthusiast. The weight of the nugget told its own story.

"Go ahead and tell me about this," he said abruptly. "You look like an honest man, and it's a waste of time to lie to me. What have you got, and how did you get it?"

In a matter of fact way John Burt related the story of the discovery and development of the Sallor Mine.

"This may be worth looking into," said the capitalist. "I'll send an expert to investigate it, and make a report." He rang a bell and a boy responded. "Go and tell David Parker I want him," he ordered.

"Until we have arrived at some tentative agreement or understanding, I don't care to have your expert examine this property," said John Burt. "Your expert will find one of two things—either that my estimate of these claims is accurate, or that it is not. In the latter event you would drop the matter. If, on the contrary, your expert confirms my estimate—as he will—it then becomes necessary to enter into a definite understanding. In brief, the question is this: 'What agreement will you make, assuming that your expert confirms my statements?'"

"That sounds like business," roared John Hawkins, a gleam of admiration for an opponent worthy of his attention showing in his eyes. "Make your proposition. You're selling; I'm buying. What's your terms?"

"You will assume the payments on the Blake option, which amount to three hundred thousand dollars," said John. "In addition to that, you will advance the money necessary for the development of the property and for the handling of the ore. Fifty per cent of the net profits will revert to you until the money paid to Blake is refunded. In consideration of the capital thus advanced, your interest in the property will amount to forty per cent and mine to sixty per cent."

"I won't do it!" thundered John Hawkins, slamming down the cover of his desk. "I must have control when I invest. Make my interest fifty-one per cent and I will talk to you. Fifty-one per cent or nothing."

"Very well," said John Burt, rising. "It is impossible for us to agree, and well we should know it in advance. Good-day, Mr. Hawkins. I am stopping at the Palace Hotel, and letters sent there will be forwarded when I leave the city. Good-day, sir."

Two days later John Burt received a message from David Parker stating that the expert, a scientific tests had shown a much higher percentage of gold than those indicated by the crude experiments made in the cabin by John Burt.

"I had an interview with Mr. Hawkins this morning," said David Parker, after greeting John Burt. "Hawkins is a very peculiar man—very peculiar—as I have told you. He says you are the hardest man to deal with he ever saw—a great compliment for you, Mr. Burton. I assure you. He has had his lawyer draw up a provisional agreement in conformity to your terms—as he understood them—and instructs me to say to you that we are invited to dine with him at his club this afternoon, when the matter may be finally arranged. If so, I am to accompany you to the mines to-morrow."

John thanked Parker, and arranged to meet him with Mr. Hawkins at a later hour. He then called on an attorney and submitted the agreement to his inspection. After making a few minor alterations, the lawyer assured John that the agreement fully protected his interests.

On a dinner such as is possible only in San Francisco the agreement was ratified.

CHAPTER XIV.

Success and Failure.

David Parker's report on the Sallor Mine was submitted to Mr. Hawkins ten days later, and it more than confirmed the statements made by John Burt. Upon receipt of it, the major proceeded to the mines, where Burt and Parker, taking several minors in whom he had absolute confidence. New claims were located on the mountain-side, and in the valley below in anticipation of possible placer deposits.

Jim Blake was delighted when informed of John's progress. "Hope you make millions, and am betting you will," said Jim as they shook hands and separated.

Mr. Hawkins, David Parker and John Burt spent three nights in the cramped quarters of the log cabin, and then moved to a more comfortable place. On their return to San Francisco a formal agreement was signed, and John Burt and John Hawkins became partners in the Sallor Mine and in the scores of claims surrounding it.

For eighteen months John directed the efforts of an army of men, clearing the land, and building a village sprang up in the valley and clustered about the stamp mills of Hawkins & Company. Churches, gambling houses, stores and saloons contended for patronage. Thousands of claims were staked out; but nature had cheated John and his associates. The mines produced eight hundred thousand dollars in gold the first year. After deducting Blake's price, John's share in the profits was more than a hundred thousand. His dividends in the following six months were three hundred thousand. Following Mr. Hawkins' advice, he so invested his profits as to become a millionaire before he had been in California two years.

Having placed the mining property on a permanent footing, and in charge of competent managers and superintendents, he transferred his headquarters to San Francisco. He still made periodical visits to the mines, where he had an office in the old log cabin; orders having been issued not to destroy it under any circumstances.

When Jim Blake received his first installment of a hundred thousand dollars, he gave a dinner in John Burt's honor in the Occidental Hotel. Twenty guests were present. This social function cost Blake a thousand dollars, and ten days after the feast he was without a dollar.

"Mining stocks," he explained to John Burt, "I played on Robert Emmet, and they trifled me."

John advanced Jim ten thousand dollars, and gave him advice which was worth more than the money. Blake followed the advice for a month. When his second installment was due, he had drawn so heavily against John that he had a balance of only forty-five thousand. Two months after he had received a check for the final payment, which terminated his original property rights in the mines, he admitted to John Burt that his total assets did not exceed five thousand dollars.

"I have a plan," said John, "one which will give full scope for your talents. I've been thinking for some time, Jim, of making a proposition to you. I recently purchased seats on the mining and stock exchanges, and wish to become a silent partner in an investing and brokerage firm. I will furnish most of the capital; but for reasons that you will appreciate, I prefer to remain in the background. How would you like to become the nominal head of such a concern, under the title, we will say, of 'James Blake & Company?' In order that you may have a substantial interest in the firm, I will advance you a hundred thousand dollars on your future profits from the Sallor Mine, and invest with the firm four hundred thousand of my own money. What do you think of my proposition?"

"Nothing would suit me better, but I'm afraid I'm not qualified for such a position," said Blake, delighted beyond measure. "Once more the path to wealth opened out before him."

"I know your qualifications," said John. "You will become the most popular and capable broker in San Francisco."

Announcement of the establishment of the new firm was made the following week. Mr. Hawkins refused to confirm or deny the popular rumorm that he was the banker of the concern; and no one suspected that John Burt had any financial interest in it.

Blake & Company first attracted speculative attention by its masterly handling of the copper in the stock market. Don Pedro Smelting and Mining Company. The profits of the firm were estimated at a million and a half. John Hawkins was publicly named as the manipulator and principal winner, but James Blake was hailed as the driving operator whose brilliant generalship had carried the success of the deal in the speculative firm.

He suddenly blazed forth as a star "the first magnitude."

ham, and Jesse proposed they should "have their tinnyties taken."

Jessie was in her sixteenth year when the picture was taken, but the long riding-habit and the queenly pose of her head against the plain background added dignity to the nascent charms of face and figure. John would sit for hours during the long evenings and gaze at this portrait. It was the one visible connecting link between the past and the present, the ocular inspiration for his future. Again and again he attempted to picture the Jessie Gordon of the present. With his eyes fixed on the portrait, and his mind centered on its original, he struggled to span the void of miles and years which parted them, and to hold communion with her. At times he imagined the message was received, and that a loving answer came, bidding him to have faith and to persevere. Surely such correspondence was not in violation of his promise to Peter Burt! Then he would turn to his books, and with a light heart fall into the night. In this room he mastered the secrets of finance and of commerce. With himself as tutor he took a postgraduate course in business. No detail was too slight, no problem too intricate, to escape his attention. The world was the chessboard of his future operations, and he explored its past and studied its present with zeal unflagging and faith unbounded.

But when slumber fell upon him, and his soul wandered into unknown regions, he dreamed—dreamed not of millions nor of triumphs over master minds. He dreamed of Jessie Gordon.

UMBRELLAS OLD AS MAN.

Though Rain Shields Are 10,000 Years Old They Need Improving.

"How rich I'd be," said an umbrella salesman, "if I had patented the umbrella."

The floorwalker smiled.

"You might as well talk," said he, "of a patent on swimming or cooking. Umbrellas appear to have existed as long as man."

Wherever we excavate—Babylon, Nineveh, Nippur—braces of the umbrella are found. This instrument is as old as mankind.

"It is of oriental origin. The English didn't begin to use it until 1790. Shakespeare, with all his genius, had no umbrella to protect him from the rain. Jonas Hanway was the first English umbrella maker."

"We have a new sort of umbrella," said the salesman, "which will brush a white thread from his long black coat. Then he resumed:

"Now, what you might do would be to patent some new sort of umbrella—some rain shield built on better lines. We have proof that the umbrella has existed for 10,000 years, and yet all that time it has not once been improved. Consider it. It is by no means perfect. It turns inside out readily, and it only protects the head and shoulders from the rain. Change all that. Give us an umbrella that is a complete rain shield. Then you will become a millionaire."

REFERENCE TO CLOTH WASTED.

Minister Surprised His Host at the Club When He Ordered Drinks.

The late Henry Canfield, even in the glories of a career, was not so careful of the proprieties when in the company of persons supposed to be rigidly and professionally abstemious in their habits. One day Mr. Canfield had a distinguished preacher of Chicago as his guest at dinner in his apartment. He was seated at the table Canfield said:

"Doctor, we have some very fine Burgundy. May I order a bottle for you?"

"No, thank you," the guest replied. "I do not care for claret in any style. I have some excellent Hockheimer; also, a bottle of wine I offer you something of that kind."

"No, thank you," said the preacher. "Perhaps you would have a glass of lemonade. The day is warm and the beverage is quite cooling. Let me order something for you in the way of a drink."

"Well," said the eminent divine, "if you have a good article of whisky about the place—which doubtless you have—I wouldn't mind a little nip of that."

He got it with Mr. Canfield's profuse apologies.

Hay Farm Better Than Gold Mine.

A good hay farm in the Yukon Valley is a better paying proposition than an ordinary gold mine. This fact has been demonstrated by a Dawson freighter, who is farming a large tract of native hay at Gravel Lake, on the trail between Dawson and the Duncan district. Stowed away in his wagon was put in an immense quantity of fine hay, enabling him to bale more than 800 tons this winter. Besides wintering his large herd of stock, he has considerable feed for sale, receiving $140 a ton. At this price his crop was worth $84,000. He clears a profit of at least 300 per cent. Winter wheat has not yet prevented conditions work. A crew of ten men has been employed and two six-mule teams to collect the bales and carry them to market. His entire crop was cut with scythes and handled in a primitive manner. Next season he will replace these methods with modern machinery, and greatly reduce the cost of handling the crop.

The Scotchman Never Forgets.

At the time of the king's accession a number of Scotsmen protested against the assumption of his majesty of the VII. after his name, he being, they say, merely the first Edward of Scotland. The protest was first made by the Scottish Patriotic Association, but since then thousands of Scotch people throughout the world have signed it. The number of signatures obtained is so great that it has taken five bulky volumes to contain them. The books are now placed in the art gallery of Glasgow, and the corporation has undertaken their custody. The protest was first made on the field of Bannockburn in June, 1901, a few months after the king's accession.—Westminster Gazette.

A Different Meaning.

A clerk of a court had lost his wife, one who had led him an uncomfortable life, and he was, of course, absent from his post. When the judge came in, as usual, he ordered:

"Mr. Clerk, open court."

"Yes, your honor," the clerk answered the court as follows:

"May it please your honor, Mr. Clerk, cannot cry to-day, as he has lost his wife."

"Doctor, you are the most jovial even tempered man I ever met—do you never get out of temper?"

"One has to get out of patience to lose one's temper, and, as I am never out of patients, I am never out of temper."

Paradoxical Dog.

LIFE OF ONCE FAMOUS ACTOR DRAWING TO CLOSE

Maurice Barrymore, who is said to be in a hopeless condition in the sanitarium at Amityville, Long Island, was famous in his day as an actor and a wit. His proper name is Herbert Blythe. He was born in India in 1848, and was educated at Cambridge University, England, subsequently studying for the law and for the Indian civil service. After being admitted to the bar he practiced law for a time, but soon adopted the stage as a profession. For years he was leading man in the A. M. Palmer and other companies, and also for Mme. Modjeska and Mrs. Langtry. Mr. Barrymore is the author of a libretto and of several plays.

KNOWS SITUATION IN EAST.

Chester Holcombe Student of Affairs in the Orient.

Ament the many interesting situations developing every day as the result of the Russian-Japanese war, few people have been listening with much interest to the utterances of Chester Holcombe, the orator, diplomat and author, who is an authority on the Japanese-Russian controversy and associated questions. Mr. Holcombe has spent many years in the far east in the diplomatic service of this country and is probably as well qualified to answer the questions to unravel them and make them plain as any other living American. Shortly after his graduation from Union college Dr. Holcombe went to China and was soon appointed secretary and interpreter to the American legation in Peking by President Grant. He has filled all of the important posts of the United States diplomatic service in China. As a member of the commission for that purpose he negotiated the treaty between the United States and Korea. In 1884 he was appointed to represent our government at the capital of the United States of Colombia, but declined the appointment. He was twice offered a decoration of high order by the emperor of China, but declined. He spent much time in Japan in the early part of 1895 in connection with the negotiation of a treaty of peace between the empire and Japan and China. He is especially interested in missionary work and is one of the Proud of His Business.

Adolphus Busch, the St. Louis brewer, has a lively appreciation of the fact that his big establishment in the city named is an important business undertaking. Some stories, more or less true, are told in illustration of this. Here is one: While traveling in Europe recently he made some acquaintance with a Scotchman, after Griffith Ellis, the leader of the school, had started the services. The Rev. Carl Henning of the Lutheran church has preached several times against allowing the children to go to the mission school, and finally one of the teachers of the Lutheran school went to the mission school and ordered the Lutheran children to leave. The children to the number of fifteen left in spite of the remonstrances of the teachers.

CANNOT VIOLATE CONFIDENCE

Judge Tarrant Will Not Permit Wife to Betray It as Evidence.

A widow, who also has a party interest in her husband's estate and is also executrix, cannot tell anything of the private life of her husband, learned through association, which came to her by her husband's words, on the witness stand, according to the decision of Judge Tarrant of Milwaukee in the suit of Ellen Fredrickson against the trustees of the United States Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit association for $2,750 life insurance. Mrs. Fredrickson claims that this amount is due on a policy held by her husband. The court qualified the decision by stating that the widow cannot testify from her observation, and the husband's life was then gone into. The widow testified that her husband was often intoxicated, and that this caused their separation.

Removal of Railway Shoes Proves of Benefit to Merchants.

Stevens Point has fully recovered from the blow it sustained by its commercial enterprise by the removal of the Wisconsin Central shops to North Fond du Lac five years ago. As a matter of fact, the merchants have come to consider the removal of these shops as a blessing in disguise.

A large furniture factory, employing about 150 persons, has taken the place of the shops, and as the employees cannot go to Chicago and Milwaukee to make their purchases, as the railroad people were accustomed to do, every merchant finds that his business is reviving. The grocery stores have been especially benefited. A year more than when he had the trade of the railroad men, and he says that it is all cash now, whereas formerly he was only an empty shop-keeper whose place was patronized when cash was lacking to trade with in other places.

There is still a kind of suspicion that the shops will go back to Stevens Point, as the Wisconsin Central spent about $500 last summer in making repairs to the old buildings, putting in new plumbing and other necessary improvements. At the same time the new plant at Fond du Lac is being repaired for the rolling stock of the road, the new equipment to be built in Minneapolis.

Barney Farness is Sent to Workhouse for Sixty Days.

Charged by Rosa Peadar of Kenosha with having sold her to a keeper of a resort of ill-repute, Barney Farness, a Milwaukee bartender, was sentenced to sixty days in the workhouse on a vagrancy charge by Judge Neelen. Miss Peadar, who is a young girl, came to Milwaukee from her home in search of work. She claims that Farness volunteered to find her a position, and took her to a wise room, where he left her after receiving "a couple of dollars" for his trouble. It was not until then that she discovered the character of the resort. "You have committed to the house of correction for sixty days at hard labor," Judge Neelen said in pronouncing sentence. "We have no use for men of your character about town."

AGENTS OUT AFTER POULTRY

Reports Indicate There Will Be Plenty for Thanksgiving.

Milwaukee commission houses are beginning to send their agents through the country districts for the Thanksgiving poultry supply, and advance reports are that the market will be well supplied.

"Chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks are all plentiful," says M. C. Kupper, secretary of the Board of Poultry Exchange. "While poultry has been bringing fair prices the indications are that the Thanksgiving quotations will be within reach of everybody. The advance supply is beginning to reach the Milwaukee market already. While some of it is poor and bringing only fair prices, a good stock will be available."

It is claimed by some of the dealers that the chicken supply will be much larger than usual this fall, because it paid the farmers to keep the hens laying all summer, owing to the uniformly high prices that were commanded during the warm months. For this reason lower chickens than usual reached the early fall market.

Everybody thought we were having quite a warm campaign just before election, but the situation here was nothing compared with Marshfield. There the newspapers could not say enough things of the opposition, and while the News came out two days late, the Times got out an extra edition on Monday. Now that things have cooled off a trifle they must have begun to wonder if it is all worth so much worry.

Because of the scarcity of funds only eighty-one farmers' institutes will be held this winter. In previous years the number has been 101.
They will open in St. Croix, Barron and Polk counties on December 6, and in the handling of milk will be a feature in the discussion. The next legislature will be asked to increase the annual appropriation for institute work from $12,000 to $15,000.

One of the best attractions the

The farmers have an advantage over the potato buyers this season they do not always enjoy. In ordinary seasons the buyers will climb up on the load, pick over the potatoes and while bidding on them toss some that are not quite perfect or are undersized to the ground, by their action indicating that the potatoes are not what they should be. This season, however, things are different. No complaint is made about small potatoes.
The complaint is that they are too large and if they discover one that is not quite perfect it is not thrown off the load for several reasons. In the first place the exertion of lifting it is too great and besides if they felt like exercising their strength they dare not roll it to the ground, as it would blockade the traffic and then get them into trouble.—Wausau Argus.

Draining Swamp Land.

B. G. Eggert, who is interested in the drainage of a large tract of swamp land in the southern part of Portage county, arrived in the city on Thursday, and expects to hereafter make his home in Grand Rapids. Mr.
Eggert has removed his family here from their home in Illinois, and he expects to open an office here in the near future. Mr. Eggert owns seventeen hundred acres of marsh land in Portage county and he made a start toward draining it last summer, the ditch running to the Wisconsin river in the vicinity of the club house on the east side of the river. He is a firm believer in the fertility of this land when it is once drained as is evidenced by his investments, and he expects to buy up more of the land as he goes along. He reports that he has been over a large portion of the marsh north and east of this city, where he has measured and tested the soil, and he says that it will average up from three to four feet deep of as good soil as ever existed, and he produces that this section of the country will one day be one of the most productive and thickly settled in this section.

What Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. Otto's Pharmacy.

MISSING IN THE FANCIES OF THE WORLD - WOMEN -

Popular Crepe de Chine.

The way that fashionists folk have adopted the crepe de chine dress is really something to marvel at. One sees it in the smartest of aristocratic circles for morning wear, with the skirt that shows the ground and just above the tip of the shawl black leather shoe. One sees it in the more elaborate luncheon and afternoon frocks where frills and lace are called upon to give the dressy effect. And one sees it in all of the newest tones, in the novel coral and geranium pinks, the new almond, olive, and bronze greens; in the shot, the printed, and the damask effects for the tansies, and in a wealth of elaboration, hand-embroidered, real laces, and ornaments that gladden with their sparkles and mock jewels, and with elaborate collars of chiffon and lace that bring out the dull luster of the crepe to perfection. For any and all occasions, the crepe de chine gown is the correct thing; the only thing to know is how to fashion it to meet the special requirements of each. And this is what the smart girl prizes herself that she can do, with the result that she presents a distinguished appearance in every gown of her crepe de chine repertoire.

A Fashionable Fur.

Caracul maintains all of its vogue as a fashionable fur, and when touched up with a little ermine or sable, it is shown in its truest and most modest, it takes on a very attractive appearance. The coat is cleverly fitted to the figure, the fronts rolled back and faced with ermine, revealing a V-neck vest of the caracul. The sleeve is a long puff, joined to the shoulder and gathered in a drooping ermine puff. The little ribbon in the hair, the chinchilla with a plume at the back, the velvet collar, and the red velvet shawl.

And Yoke Night Gown.

One gathers from the demand for night gowns that the throat and which is a perfect protection to the chest. This one is admirable in every way and can be made from wash material as well as cotton materials, but is

Design by May Manton.

Sugar burned on a gas flame is death to mice. And stains on dresses may be removed with a cut raw potato. Lubricate a "mop" with glycerin instead of oil, and it will silence the squeak very effectively. Soap shavings or a small lump of yolk tucked into a mousehole will prevent the reappearances of the mouse most effectively. Marks that have been made on paint can be removed by rubbing with a lemon, then with whiting, and washing with soap and water. If newspapers are well rubbed with lard and tied in several thicknesses of newspapers, they can be safely stored without fear of rust.

Smart Evening Wear.

Boutons, both velvet-covered and metal, ivory and porcelain, will be used on the smart evening suits, and the girl who can make a chain can have some exquisite sets that would cost quite a smart sum in the shops for a fraction of what her less skilled sister has to pay. For these beautiful evening opens wraps the smart girl has adopted the moire antique velvet with a rush. These are as sheer and supple as can be, and yet there is richness to them that throws up into high relief the handsome and expensive trimmings which so appropriately accompany them. The shawl shapes are mostly moire in these, all of the more delicate tints—orchid-mauve, primrose-yellow, almond-green, and such are decorated with real laces and lined with much plisse chiffon.

Suggestion for Dressing Table.
